DISCOVER INDULGENCE ON YOUR DOORSTEP WITH HURLSTON HALL GOLF & COUNTRY CLUB

Spring is well and truly here, and with the Bank Holiday approaching, Hurlston Hall offers couples and groups of friends a welcome escape from city life.

Set in 135 acres of beautiful parkland on the outskirts of Southport, there's something for everyone at Hurlston Hall's golf and country club; one of the North West's hidden gems.

The complex consists of the clubhouse, an impressive leisure and beauty centre, driving range and its famous 18-hole, par-72 golf course.

Couples can retreat to the countryside for an indulgent day of golfing, pampering and a spot of lunch by the club's head chef, Tim Roberts - maybe even take a golf lesson together with resident golf coach, Tim Hastings.

The leisure club will be a sure hit with the girls - with its sauna room and heated pool, and not to mention the many beauty treatments available for perfect pampering. Hurlston Hall makes for the ultimate day out and is already proving to be a regular hangout for ladies looking for a day out with a difference.

The club's feature attraction is of course, its golf course, and with its solid reputation for excellent hospitality and tailor-made top-value packages, it's not hard to see why.

Hurlston Hall welcomes day visitors to enjoy their clubhouse - take it easy on a break from the course with a chilled drink from the bar. Enjoy a meal from the superb menu in the restaurant, where good food and warm hospitality are guaranteed.

Located in the scenic village of Scarisbrick, why not make a weekend of it with a wide choice of some of the best local hotels and guesthouses just a short distance from the club.

The village also offers easy access to popular attractions such as Scarisbrick Hall, ancestral home of the Scarisbrick family, dating back to the time of King Stephen and one of the finest examples of Victorian Gothic architecture in the country - that's if you have any time left of course!
